TEACHING AND LEARNING

WHAT ADDITIONAL SUPPORT CAN BE PROVIDED IN THE CLASSROOM?

- Teaching assistants (TAs) are employed and used to support and enhance the learning taking place in classrooms. TAs are responsible for supporting the learning of small groups of children, delivering 1:1 sessions and small group interventions to targeted pupils.
- We have a team of TAs who are employed for classroom support as well as specific SEN support. This includes staff working in our enhanced resource provision for children who have autism (The Ark).
- At Brentnall, we have an enhanced resource provision (The Ark) for children who all have an EHCP for autistic spectrum disorder. At full capacity we will have up to 12 children in key stage 2 who are taught an individualised curriculum by highly specialised staff.
- If additional funding is allocated to children who have special educational needs and disabilities (SEND) through an Educational, Health and Care Plan (EHCP), this funding is used to provide additional support to the individual pupil. If we think that your child needs additional support on a regular basis, we will tell you.
- TAs can also be used for pre-teaching of new topics, in particular focusing on the teaching of topic-specific vocabulary.
- We make reasonable adjustments to ensure that the needs of children with SEND are met.
- All teachers plan differentiated learning, activities and resources to suit the needs of all children in their class.
- Working walls are used for visual support in every classroom including our intervention spaces.
- We provide individual resources to support learning, for example key vocabulary and individual timetables.
- We have a pastoral team who support our children and families in a number of different ways.
- We are working on the Autism Education Trust standards which is helping us to evaluate our practice in addressing the needs of pupils on the autism spectrum.
- Access to a range of technology including laptops and iPads.

- We have staff who are ELKLAN trained (a speech and language programme). When a possible speech and language need is identified, a TA trained in ELKLAN will screen the pupil using the TALC assessment. If required, they will then be assigned to a specific intervention based on their need and when deemed appropriate a referral to speech and language will be made with parental consent.
- Specialist Speech and Language Therapist commissioned by the local authority work with the children in the Enhanced Resource Provision
- Where necessary we provide specific equipment for children who need this in order to be able to access their learning.

All children in nursery and reception have weekly WellComm sessions and where appropriate, children in year 1. We have recently rolled out WellComm through key stage 2.
